Elkay Plumbing Products Division announces new facility format

OAK BROOK, ILL. — Elkay Plumbing Products Division (PPD) president Jim Scott announced that the company has committed to a substantial investment to transform its Broadview, Illinois, sink manufacturing facility into the Elkay Technology Center, which will include a new “rapid production facility.” This facility will feature flexible tooling and production capability to deliver a new approach to high-value products that meet today’s demand for more individualized lifestyle kitchen and bath solutions. The Elkay Technology Center will produce high-end sinks featuring innovative shapes, sizes and finishes, going from concept to production faster.
