

Walter Reilly retires from Elkay®

Walter E. Reilly, corporate vice president and chief human resources officer, recently retired from Elkay Manufacturing Company. Reilly's role at Elkay included activities such as labor and employee relations, organization and leadership development and employee health and wellness. In 2003, as a result of his leadership in employee wellness, Elkay was awarded the Well Workplace Gold Award by the Wellness Councils of America, and, in 2005, the Right Workplace Award by the Chicagoland Chamber of Commerce. Reilly also served as a member of Elkay's executive council. His professional career included managerial and executive positions in human resources and operations at Oscar Meyer, Colt Industries, Inland Steel and VanLeer Packaging Worldwide.

In retirement, Reilly plans to spend more time with his family and to continue as chairman of the Lincoln Foundation for Performance Excellence, an organization he has served for 12 years. He has also committed to help Benedictine University start a Center for Values Based Leadership, and he plans to lecture at Benedictine, as well as doing consulting and executive coaching.
