Elkay To Open Technology Center

Elkay Plumbing Products Division announced it has committed to a substantial investment to transform its Broadview, Ill., sink manufacturing facility into the Elkay Technology Center, which will include a new “rapid production facility.”

This facility will feature flexible tooling and production capability to deliver a new approach to high-value products. The Elkay Technology Center will produce high-end sinks featuring innovative shapes, sizes and finishes, going from concept to production significantly faster than is possible with today’s manufacturing systems.
